Thanks

for your encouragement

for your patience

for my own family who helped so much and gave up more for Quinsept, Inc

P. O. Box 216

Lexington, MA 02173, for the computer software which permitted putting it all together in an understandable manner. They were great to offer explanations to the novice user, to modify the program for my needs, and to always have pleasant sounding voices for McKay Kunz who loaned the pedigree charts for Kent Kunz for a wonderful contribution when it was needed most for a few others, some of whom literally gave the widow's mite for you who I know by mail, by telephone, and by story, as I read between the lines of your record, thank you for enriching me for this wonderful heritage and for the early ones who had the courage to leave the little hamlets and accept the gospel

Be not misled by the idle words of unfortunate fools. Neither the state, nor the school, nor anything else but the home is the basis of life. Rulers do not really govern the land; teachers do not really give life its form. That is done by fathers and mothers in the home. Public life in a nation is not the most important, but instead, the home is the root of everything; and, as the root is, so will the plant be formed.

Preface

Long before America became interested in the phenomenon of ROOTS, our Grandparents began the task of finding their family.

They had been moved by the Spirit to accept the gospel of Jesus Christ and all that came with it. Part of that "all that came with it" was to leave homeland and family and move to a new country and a new continent, far from the one where so many generations had lived before them.

They came to work out their living with no lack of hardship and adversity. Even so, they found time and commitment to "seek after their dead." It is the prayerful hope of the author that we may continue the search and provide what we can for the salvation of those who came before. If we do this, the Spirit of Elijah will truly have touched our hearts.

INTRODUCTION

For several years, the author has thought about this book and waited for some person, with time and skills, to write it. Some may have done it, but they died too soon. Others may have undertaken the project, but didn't for whatever reason.

Why be involved in your lives and records? Somewhere in the interaction of life and times, and whatever forces those not in this world can adduce, came that "cause" which would not be put aside.

What is this book and what is it not? It is an attempt to say something about the family of Johannes Kunz (John Kunz I for those of us who have made such a change). This man is our a Grandparent of us all - a man whose birth, entire life, and death took place in a very small area of the small country of Switzerland. It is an attempt to say something about the family of Rosina Katharina Klossner, his wife, who "co-authored" us as family members.

Perhaps in the eye of your mind you can see this Johannes, following his death in 1871, as he may have been permitted to observe his family still upon the earth. His son, John II, had come to America and was in the process of building up a new "Bern." His twin sisters, came with him, as did eight of his children. Perhaps he saw his Grandson, John III, as he left those beautiful alps and brought his Grandmother, Johannes' wife, who would later die and be buried in Logan, Utah. [When you go there you will find her grave in the Southwest corner of the Northwest intersection of the Logan Cemetery. She is our common ancestor and you will want to go there one day and look at her small headstone by the larger Morrell stone.]

and documents the impact that the early missionaries of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints had upon their lives. (Perhaps another book, that one of you will write, will say something of the impact of the missionaries who are children of the Kunz family and who have gone into all parts of the world to render hundreds of missionary years of service.)

The short history that follows was written by Paul Nielson, who was mothered by Lula Kunz Nielson, who was fathered by John Kunz III, who was fathered by John Kunz II, who was parented by those whose names are the title of this book. Paul wrote it and sent it from Switzerland by a very complicated process, which is a story all by itself. Paul has blessed the lives of many of us here, and many of them who already live "over there."

This book bears record of the posterity of John Kunz I and Rosina Katharina Klossner who joined the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints. They would be thankful that most of their family is still a part of the Church. (Perhaps the prayers of many in this book will be united that a few who are not in the Church may feel that same Spirit.) Vast numbers of you have served as Mission Presidents, Stake Presidents, Bishops, Relief Society and Primary Presidents and probably in almost every other position in the Church.

Two were appointed to be Regional Representatives at the same time and were announced jointly in the same issue of the Church News.

Some have found their biographical statements in Who's Who in America, American Men of Science, Outstanding Young Men of America, Outstanding Young Women of America, and in many other such places. Some have sat on the Board of Directors of important companies, some have been the President, or Chairman of the Board of other companies. Others have served in political positions, or other community service.

One was even the key person in recovering a hydrogen bomb lost in the ocean.

Some have given their lives in the service of their country, and their bodies lie on foreign soil awaiting the resurrection. Others have experienced tragedy and problems akin to Job. Many have borne it nearly as well.

Perhaps most importantly, many have borne wonderful families and trained their children well so that they would in turn bear and train their children well.

This book will chart birth, marriage, death, and movement from place to place, which Kunz people seem to do about as often as the rest of Americans, where about one in five families change homes every year. This book will remind us of the many grandparents who came so much earlier. They came when the gospel was not yet restored to the earth. We must work tirelessly to make sure that they are able to receive the saving ordinances in the temple of the Lord.

This book represents much research, thousands of letters passing through the mail, and numerous telephone calls. Every effort was made to get us all. This book will miss a few and we are sorry about that. A few wished to not be included.

The record may not always be accurate, although we worked at that. By the time you try to find one of us we may have already moved and you will have to ask our brother or sister or parent.

The major section on our individual records is divided into family groups, representing the Grandchildren of John I and Rosina. That seemed to be good way to help us find our way through the record. The names of each of the Grandchildren (one of whom is my Grandfather, John III) appears at the top of each page.

In addition, the names may be found in the Index, which will permit you to find a particular person by either maiden name or last married name for the married women.

Perhaps you will find the Place Index of interest. There the names of the married or adults away from home may be found by the city or town where they live. You may find out that a neighbor, who you didn't expect, is also a relative. It is hoped that you will find the information a pleasure.

Since you may not be familiar with the format in which the records are presented, the following explanation is given:

In the example that follows, the numbers at the top of each column represent generations of people. The 0 is John Kunz I and his wife, Rosina. Column 1 is their children, column 2 is the grandchildren, column 3 great-grandchildren and so on.

Thus, Junior Kunz (RN=76) is a Great Great Great Grandchild of John and Rosina. The * after his name means that he died young. Those with two ** after their name lived to adulthood, but did not marry prior to death. RN= is simply an identification number for the person and the size of the number has no relevance. The persons with lower numbers were just typed into the record first.

Following Junior and Lamont Jay, you will see John Schmid Kunz, a Great-Great Grandson of John and Rosina. He is on column 4. By going back to column 3 and moving backwards to a previous page, you will find his parents, John William or John Jr. and Mary Schmid Kunz, who had 12 children. John Schmid Kunz is the 2nd of those 12.

Just below John is his wife, Marjorie Telford Kunz. She, of course, is F for female. She was B (born in 1909), M (married 18 Jan 1939 to John Schmid Kunz @ (at) Salt Lake City, UT.) The record shows that she D (died in 1985 in Salt Lake City, and that they have 1 child, Marian, who has four children.

The total record begins with the oldest child, shows the data for his oldest child, etc. It then comes back and shows the 2nd child and repeats the process.

On the page that follows you will note that Shane Paul Clark is in the 7th generation after John I and Rosina. Shane's address can be obtained by looking at his parents address, inasmuch as he is only 16 years old and still at home.

Sometimes there is a footnote on a record which indicates that the person was married or sealed in a particular temple. Most of the family members were married in the temple, but it just does not appear on the record since that information was not asked as part of the information which was collected. Lack of such a statement should certainly not be taken as an indication that there was not a temple marriage.

Additional marriages are given whenever the information could be obtained. You may want to examine the information on your own immediate family first so that the system will be more easily understood.

Have a great time getting better acquainted with your family.

THE SWISS BACKGROUND OF THE FAMILY OF JOHN KUNZ I AND ROSINA KATHARINA KLOSSNER KUNZ

by

Paul Anthon Nielson (RN=1324)

In February 1762, Niklaus Kunz (1730-1808) and Margaritha Klossner (173-1805), second cousins once removed and both from the Bernese alpine hamlet of Zwischenflueh, were married in a double ceremony (along with Niklaus' sister and Margaritha's brother) in the Parish Reformed Church in Diemtigen, Bern, Switzerland.

Two years later, the Reverend David Spruengli (1723-1777) described conditions within the Diemtigen parish in 1764. In a report requested by the government of the Republic of Bern, he maintained that the land in the entire parish (130 square kilometers) was among the best in the entire canton for cattle breeding and that the inhabitants therefore traditionally raised stock.

Grains and potatoes were seldom planted inasmuch as the people lived mainly from milk products, which they produced. Their welfare, he indicated, was almost entirely dependent upon the breeding of cattle. Spruengli complained about the effect of imported luxury goods: "...However [their prosperity was] deprived somewhat through [the use of] wine and tobacco, even more from bread and the ostentatiousness which continues to gain ground. "Spruengli considered bread as morally corrupt, presumably because only the wealthy cattle breeders and cheesemakers were able to purchase enough imported grain for flour.

Niklaus and Margaritha Kunz and their seven children lived in the old family home called "Tschuppis" at Narrenbach on the valley floor in Zwischenflueh. Two sons and two daughters died while still young, both girls in an epidemic during the summer of 1775. Of the three sons who married and raised families of their own, Jakob was the youngest.

Jakob Kunz (1774-1841) married Margaritha Klossner (1779-1818), his third cousin, on February 6, 1798, in the Diemtigen Parish church. Margaritha's father, Jakob Klossner (1745-1819), lived with his family in their home "auf dem Laden" in that area of Zwischenflueh known as Oeyen. He was a respected and God-fearing citizen of the hamlet and he represented Zwischenflueh for a time as a Judge on the Diemtigen Consistory Court. The main function of that ecclesiastical institution within the state controlled church was to oversee the morals of the parishioners and mete out punishments as deemed necessary.

Peter Klossner (1705-1790), Margaritha's Grandfather, and his Uncle, Jakob Klossner (1673-1743), also served the church as Consistory Judges. Such service would mark them as well respected men in the community.

Jakob and Margaritha Kunz made their home at "Tschuppis" along with Jakob's elder brother, Christian Kunz (1767-1838), and his family. Niklaus Kunz (1764-1832), their eldest brother, lived with his family nearby at "Rossacker."

Exactly one month after Jakob and Margaritha Kunz's marriage, Napoleon's troops began their occupation of Bern and the Republic. The first son and daughter of Jakob and Margaritha Kunz died a few months after birth, and a second son was born in 1802. Their third son, Johannes Kunz (1803-1871), known by his posterity in the United States as John Kunz I, was born on the "Tschuppis" farm on September 16, 1803. This is the man whose name appears upon the cover of this book, and who is the focal point, along with his wife, in this discussion of the Kunz family.

Prior to assuming his new duties as Pastor at Reutigen in the late summer of 1805, Reverend Johann Jakob Engemann (1748-1823) compiled a lengthy report of his observations during the 32 years of his service in the Diemtigen Parish. He believed that the affluence had increased, evidently due to the marriage politics practiced by the wealthy citizens. That which the poor no longer possessed, had come into the hands of others who had become prosperous, "...The happy middle class is declining too much."

Engemann noted that considerably more produce was being planted than when he came to Diemtigen, "...More bread is eaten than before... Luxury has also increased." He mentioned that the people had much larger houses with expensive and luxurious furnishings, fancy foods, and more costly clothes.

...The young men look like they come from the cities... all hair fashions, as well as others, are being copied. No wealthy farmer neglects to send his children to the French speaking cantons, boys are now even being sent to expensive boarding schools and receiving an education formerly known only by the sons of the aristocracy.

Through the centuries, and certainly by the beginning of the 19th century, when Engemann wrote his impressions of the Diemtigen parishioners, the Kunzes formed a part of the rapidly declining middle class.

The family name was nevertheless well respected because of its roots in the neighboring parish of Erlenbach in Simmental, where Peter Kunz ( -1544), the reformer of the Lower Simmental Canyon, was born. He studied in the monastery in Interlaken and later served as the last Catholic Priest in his home parish of Erlenbach.

Peter Kunz was among the theologians attending the reformatory movement debates of the Baden Disputa-tion in May 1526. As a result he gained contact with the eminent Swiss reformer, Ulrich Zwingli (1484-1531).

In August 1526, Kunz signed a letter to Zwingli as "Yours Till Before the Alter [of covenants]." On May 13, 1527, supported by the voting male population of the Lower Simmental District over 14 years of age, Peter Kunz proclaimed the Reformation of the District. That same year Diemtigen was divided from the Erlenbach Parish and became an independent ecclesiastical unit in preparation of the Reformation which became law throughout the Republic on February 7, 1528.

Although Kunz's ideas concerning the Bernese state church were respected by the early reformers in Germanic-speaking Europe, Jean Calvin (1509-1564), whose ideas of reform in Geneva were entirely different, was one of Kunz's harshest critics.

During the years following the birth of Johannes Kunz (John I), four more brothers and two sisters joined the family in the old ancestral home at "Tschuppis." Neither Johannes nor his brothers and sisters attended boarding schools nor did they further their education through a sojourn in the French-speaking area of Switzerland.

No doubt Jakob and Margaritha Kunz sent their children as often as possible to the local school in the hamlet of Zwischenflueh. It is interesting to note that Margaritha Klossner Kunz's great grandfather, Lieutenant Peter Klossner [1676-1733], was noted as the schoolmaster in Zwischenflueh in 1729.

Reverend Spruengli complained of the poor school attendance due to the extraordinary distances between the scattered farms and the schools, and the harsh winters with the consequent bad paths. According to Engemann, not much changed in the following forty-one years, "...However they must be excused in winter because of the vast distance, often because of deep snow, the difficult paths, bad weather, in summer, because of living on higher [alpine] mountains."

Tragedy struck the family at "Tschuppis" on Christmas day in 1818 when shortly before she turned forty years of age, Margaritha Klossner Kunz died, giving premature birth to her eleventh child, who was stillborn.

At the time of her death, Johannes was just 15 years old, his youngest brother not quite three. The anguish and despair which Jakob Kunz sensed through the early loss of his wife and the mother of his eight surviving children mellowed only through his devoutness and piety.

Seventeen year old Johannes Kunz (John I) became the first of his brothers and sisters to wed when he married his second cousin from the steep mountain-side farm "auf der Blatten" above Zwischenflueh. His marriage to Rosina Katharina Klossner (1802-1883), whose mother Rosina Minnig Klossner (1767-1805) died a few months before her youngest daughter's third birthday, took place early in 1821 in the Diemtigen village church.

Shortly thereafter, their first child, a still-born son, was born. In January 1823, the second son born to Johannes and Rosina Katharina Kunz was born and given the name Johannes (known to his American descendants as John Kunz II) after his father. John II's Great-Grandmother, Anna Klossner Klossner (Rosina Katharina Klossner Kunz's Grandmother) died that summer at the ancestral family home "auf der Blatten" shortly before her 94th birthday. At that time she was the oldest citizen of the community of Diemtigen. A third son, Christian Kunz (1826-1904), was born to Johannes and Rosina Katharina Kunz in 1826.

The posterity of "Tschuppis Jakob" [Kunz], as he was known by the inhabitants of Zwischenflueh, continued to develop. In the fall of 1826, Samuel Kunz (1808-1898), a younger brother of Johannes (John I), married a second cousin (who is the half-sister of Rosina Katharina Klossner Kunz). The following year another brother, David Kunz (1807-1880), married a bride from a neighboring village. Twenty-two year old brother Christian Kunz (1806-1828), who was mute, died at "Tschuppis" and the family was again bereaved. A few years later the eldest brother Jakob Kunz (1802-1867) married a widowed distant cousin.

The family of Johannes (John I) and Rosina Katharina Klossner Kunz and their two sons increased with the birth of Magdalena Kunz [Wiedmer] (1833-1871), followed by twin daughters, Rosina Kunz [Morrell] (1836-1913) and Katharina Kunz [Roberts] (1836-1907).

One week after his elder daughter Margaritha Kunz (1811-1850) married Christian Mani (1808-1897) in the summer of 1837, the 62-year old widower "Tschuppis Jakob" [Kunz] remarried. His second wife, Susanna Weissmueller Weissmueller Zumbrunnen Kunz (1785-1846) was the widow of David Weissmueller of Wimmis and Johannes Zumbrunnen (1769-1836) of Erlenbach in Simmental.

As upright and God-fearing members of the Reformed Church, Jakob and Susanna Kunz continued their practice of regular reading in the Bible. According to family tradition, they particularly concerned themselves with a comparison between the teachings of their pastor and their own interpretation of the true gospel of Christ as they had understood it through studying the scriptures. Imbued with their faith, they agreed that whichever one died first would return and inform the remaining partner whether or not the true gospel was on the earth.

The fact that upon Jakob Kunz's death at Enetkirel (to where he had moved from "Tschuppis") in Zwischenflueh on November 13, 1841, Susanna waited by his coffin to receive his message, has been passed on to posterity by Johannes Kunz (John I) to his children and grandchildren.

Discouraged after three days of waiting to no avail, Susanna expressed her disappointment "I guess he is not coming to let me know." After uttering her disheartenment she heard the voice of her deceased husband, who told her that he could not communicate with her until she spoke first and that indeed, "the true gospel was on the earth and that their posterity would accept it." By that time, of course, the gospel had been restored to the earth.

The formal organization of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints by Joseph Smith (1805-1844) and his associates in 1830 enabled the gradual spreading of the restored gospel. Missionaries preached the message of the restoration in England as of 1837 and baptized several hundred converts in the four following years.

Reports of this success apparently reached the Bernese Region. Some five months prior to Jakob Kunz's death in Zwischenflueh, Reverend Abraham Samuel Ruefenacht (1800-1886) of the Wattenwil Parish warned the general synod of Canton Bern during its meetings in June 1841 of the new religious denomination.

It is a cause of concern that this Mormonite sect, probably in conjunction with land speculation, will also attempt to proselyte in Canton Bern, and that agents of the same (one of whom originally Bernese himself, has been personally brought to his [Ruefenacht's] attention) may be gadding about in this area. It is necessary that the clergy maintain a watchful eye over this dangerously cunning form of the selling of souls.

Reverend Johann Karl Rudolf Anneler (1804-1877) of the Oberdiessbach Parish, "...Who [was] also aware of this matter, did not find it so dangerous, inasmuch as the people are fully capable of seeing through such a clumsy deception."

Not quite a year after Jakob Kunz's death, his 19-year old, eldest grandson Johannes (John II) married Rosina Knutti (1819-1894), a third cousin from the "Untere Schlunegg" farm above the hamlet of Schwenden. The 23-year old bride was the daughter of David Knutti (1775-1846), former innkeeper of the "Tiermatti" inn at Schwenden, and his second wife, widow Katharina Mani Mani (1784-1843).

Katharina Mani Mani Knutti died just two months before Rosina Knutti Kunz gave birth to her eldest son, Johannes [John Kunz III] (1844-1918) on the "Blatten" farm at Zwischenflueh. Christian Kunz, brother of John II, and Susanna Katharina Knutti Klossner (1803-), half-sister of Rosina Knutti Kunz, were among the godparents who witnessed John III's christening in the village church at Diemtigen.

Rosina Kunz [Bischoff Dredge] (1845-1914) (an alleged marriage to Kaspar Merz was an error of genealogist Julius Billeter [1869-1957]), eldest daughter of John II and Rosina Kunz, was born at Zwischenflueh in the fall of 1845. Her godparents were her grandfather, Johannes Kunz (John I), and two aunts, Susanna Knutti [Bruni] (1827-1906) and Magdalena Mani Klossner (1815-1865).

On the second day of Christmas December 26, 1846, Christian Kunz (1846-1931) was born at "Grunholz" in Schwenden. David Kunz, brother of John I, from "Tschuppis" and Maria Schwenter Mani (1816-1903), wife of Consistory Judge Johannes Mani (1810-1871) (half-brother of Rosina Knutti Kunz) in Schwenden, were among the godparents at Christian's christening.

Because of their growing family, John II and Rosina Kunz had moved by the end of the summer of 1848 to the "Moos" farm in the hamlet of Riedern with their daughter and two sons. Their second daughter, Rosina Katharina Kunz [Bolmer Chivers] (1848-1931), affectionately known by the family as simply Kaeti, was the first to be born there. Susanna Wiedmer Kunz (1823-1898), wife of John I's youngest brother, Peter Kunz (1816-1895) at Enetkirel, was one of Kaeti's godmothers.

At this same time in Utah, Mormon Church President Brigham Young (1801-1877) called Lorenzo Snow (1814-1901), a member of the Council of the Twelve Apostles, on a mission to Italy during a General Conference of the Church in Salt Lake City in October of 1849. Snow and his companion first traveled to England, where they called Thomas Brown Holmes Stenhouse (1824-1882) and another new convert to accompany them on their mission. After spending several months among the Waldenses in Torre Pellice, Snow sent Stenhouse to Switzerland in late November, 1850.

When Elder Snow visited Stenhouse in Geneva in February 1851, he was "...Much pleased with the prospect of establishing the gospel in Geneva. I feel free, and in a free atmosphere and to prophecy good of Switzerland."

From Geneva, Stenhouse took the gospel to the city of Lausanne, capital of Canton Vaud. One of his earliest converts there was Serge Louis Ballif (1821-1901), namesake of his godfather, Count Sergei Grigorevich Stroganoff (1794-1882), the great patron of Russian art, history and education.

Count Sergei gained contact with Ballif's father, Jean Francois Frederic Ballif (1774-1848), while the latter served as private secretary to Armand du Plessis, Duke Richelieu (1766-1822), founder (1794) of the black sea port city of Odessa in the Ukraine and Prime Minister of France (1818-21) under Louis xviii (1755-1824).

Serge Louis Ballif's piety was veritably hereditary. His grandfather, Reverend Jean Francois Louis Ballif (1726-1790), preached in the cathedral in Lausanne, taught Greek and ethics at the Lausanne Academy and was a leader in a mystical congregation which held meetings in his home. Both Reverend Ballif's wife and mother came from French Huguenot refugee families in Switzerland.

As a respected, wealthy citizen of Lausanne, Serge Louis Ballif's conversion to the Church was very important to the early development of Mormonism in Switzerland. (After immigrating to Utah in 1854, Ballif returned to Switzerland twice as a missionary, the second time [1879-81] presiding over the Swiss-German Mission. His daughter, Louise Alexandrine Ballif [Benson] [1850-1922], was the paternal grandmother of Church President Ezra Taft Benson.

Another early conversion of historical significance in Lausanne is that of Josephine de la Harpe de Ludert (1813- ), widow of Alexandre de Ludert, Imperial Russian Consul General in Cuba, who after immigrating to Utah became the plural wife of Elder Franklin D. Richards (1821-1899) of the Council of Twelve Apostles and later of Octave Ursenbach (1832-1871).

After branches of the Church were established in Geneva, Lausanne and the Neuchatel area in French-speaking Switzerland, Stenhouse, Ballif and Francois Frederic Roulet (1816-1885) took the gospel to the Rhine River city of Basel early in 1853. Shortly thereafter a branch was established there through the proselyting of George Mayer (1805-1896). When Mayer left later that same year to establish the church in Zuerich, his successor in Basel was Jacob Foutz Secrist (1818-1855).

While he was enroute to Europe as a missionary in 1852, Secrist stopped in his native Pennsylvania to visit his aged parents who were ... Too much astonished at my leaving my family [his wife, two daughters and a son, a second son is born just a few days after Secrist's departure] to be gone from them 3 years and that I was going on a mission...To preach in the German language, a language I did not understand...

After laboring a short time in England, Secrist went to Prussia where, upon preaching, he was expelled by the police and fled to the principality of Saxony-Meiningen. After some success there he was imprisoned, again expelled for preaching the gospel and returned to England, where he labored for six months.

After traveling from England via Paris, France, Secrist arrived at Swiss Mission headquarters in Geneva early in November 1853 and met with Stenhouse and the local church members. "I found half the congregation German [-speaking], the other half French. I spoke a little in broken manner. I find I have lost the use or in other words I am out of practice, yet I love the language."

Upon being assigned a few days later to labor in Basel, Secrist notes, "this forenoon I read in the German. I can begin to read German pretty well. I delight in the German language." Intellectually stimulated through his confrontation with languages other than English, Secrist revealed a glimpse of his "weltanschauung" [feeling] at the end of a lengthy epistle to his family from suburban Basel in a special message to his children. "When I come home I will bring home some German books and teach you all to read German, as a great portion of the earth speak German and there will no doubt yet be many Germans come into the Church. My little men must learn English, German and French, then they can travel nearly all over the world without any trouble.")

In May 1854, Secrist went to the Bernese Oberland to baptize the converts of Peter Brawand (1801-1856), a native of the alpine village of Interlaken who had been converted to the Church in Denmark. Upon returning to his Swiss home, Brawand taught "the principles of the restoration of the gospel through the appearance of an angel to Joseph Smith," "...Stirring up the people, putting them in mind of the signs of the times." Brawand's efforts resulted in several persons desiring to be baptized. However he did "not have authority to baptize." In his first letter from Thun on June 20, 1854, Secrist wrote his wife that "I have baptized 11 within two weeks and expect to baptize 6 or 8 more very shortly and a very good prospect ahead persons too that have means to get along with, yet some are very poor."

On May 28, 1854, Secrist baptized the first convert in Canton Bern, Elisabeth Galli (1814- ) of Matten near Interlaken. The "Berner-Zeitung" newspaper reported shortly thereafter that a "new apostle...From the notorious Mormon sect in America" had performed a baptism in the Interlaken District '...In the moonlight at night.'" (Galli's niece, Elisabeth Galli [Hyde] [1840-1920], who joined the Church the following year, later became a plural wife of Elder Orson Hyde [1805-1878] of the Council of Twelve Apostles.)

Three days later Secrist baptized Christian Schneider (1779-1860), a lithographer from Uetendorf near Thun. Schneider organized the first church meetings at the home of his son-in-law, lithographer and printer Gottlieb Bischoff (1818- ), a Burgher of Thun. Margaritha Boss Wampfler (1795-1861), widow of Heimberg schoolmaster Jakob Wampfler (1790-1850), was baptized by Secrist in the creek in Naurachern near Kiesen on June 6th. Five days later the Bischoffs (Schneider's daughter and son-in-law) were baptized by Secrist in the Aare River near Thun. Two days after their baptism Secrist baptized Margaritha Wampfler's sister and daughter in the Kiesen Creek near Maurachern.

After laboring in the Bernese Oberland for two months, Secrist reported "... Having baptized 20 that are rejoicing in the truth...Although the priests are crying 'false teacher'." Among the new converts were tobacco manufacturer Ulrich Buehler (1823-1907) in Gunten and his wife. "Tobacco-Ueli," as Buehler was known to his associates, became interested in the Church upon receiving a pamphlet from Bischoff in his printing shop, where Buehler allegedly had had cigar labels printed.

The Buehlers baptism caused much consternation among the citizens of Gunten and the parishioners of Sigriswil. As a result, the Bernese historian and pastor at Sigriswil, Reverend Karl Howald (1796-1869), energetically tried to hinder further growth of the 'Mormon' movement. Early in August, Secrist was ordered to appear before an extraordinary meeting of the Sigriswil Parish Council who declared him "...To be a false teacher, who attempts to lead the weak in faith astray..." and notified the district authorities in Thun of his activities. In mid-September, the Director of the Office of Justice and Police of Canton Bern ordered Secrist deported and warned other cantonal police offices about Secrist's proselyting.

The appeal of Buehler, Bischoff and other Church members to Cantonal government and American consular authorities in Bern was of no avail. After meeting with Church associates in Geneva, Secrist, although sick, returned to the Bernese region. He received excellent care in the home of Margaritha Wampfler at Maurachern and upon regaining his strength visited the church members. "I kept myself hid from strangers and traveled from place to place after night (and as the saints are very much scattered, frequently walked 12 miles after dark)..." Mission President Daniel Tyler (1816-1906) came from Geneva and at a meeting with the newly baptized converts at the Wampfler home in Maurachern set apart Buehler as the local Presiding Elder.

When the district authorities in Thun learned that Secrist was still in the area, he was summoned. Through a mistake of the District Commissioner's office, Brawand was arrested on National Prayer Day in mid-November instead of Secrist. Upon reporting to the Thun officials Secrist was told to appear before the government authorities in Bern. Following nine days imprisonment there, Secrist's official deportation was started after he was "...Transported by a policeman and never got clear until last evening [six days later]...At the dividing line of Switzerland and France at Basel."

In a letter to William Budge (1828-1919), Secrist reflected that the work was going on well in the neighborhood of Thun.

35 were baptized and there were excellent prospects for an ingathering [to Utah], could I have remained. The saints were yet weak in the faith. As we could very seldom come together, my teachings were from house to house. We never had but 5 or 6 prayer meetings, yet for all this the most of them were good, warmhearted saints, but nearly all poor. Some of them owned property but were in debt for it.

From the frontier village of St-Louis, Secrist wrote Tyler that he had been deported from the cantons of Bern, Solothurn and Baselland, as well as from the city of Basel. In his response, Tyler noted that I have received a letter from Brother Buehler, the tobacconist. They were all in good spirits. I have full confidence that he was the right man for the place and I feel assured that you will yet have much joy in the foundation you have laid for although you have been compelled to leave, the truth still remains and will grow and bear fruit in spite of all opposition.

Secrist departed France for England and in the Spring of 1855 returned to the United States. As was often the case with returning missionaries, he accepted the assignment as the Captain of an immigrant company for the westward trek to Utah. During the journey, a cholera epidemic broke out among the pioneer party and claimed many lives, including Secrist's. He was buried near Kearney, Nebraska.

Prior to accepting the teaching position in the village school at Heimberg, near Thun, Jakob and Margaritha Boss Wampfler lived in the group of houses "Ennet dem Graben" at Oeyen in Zwischenflueh. The conversion of Wampfler's widow, daughter and sister-in-law to Mormonism was bewildering to the inhabitants of the mountain hamlets where Wampfler's parents and grandparents had lived for decades. A similar dismay was experienced by the residents of the community of origin of Margaritha Boss Wampfler, eldest of the four daughters of David Boss (1762-1831) of Ringgoldingen in the parish of Erlenbach in Simmental. Margaritha Wampfler's faithful support and activity in the Church, from its earliest beginnings in the Bernese Oberland until moving to Zuerich and then emigrating, was a cause of much discussion in the parishes of Erlenbach and Diemtigen.

When Secrist was forced to leave Switzerland by the end of 1854, two more sons had joined the family of John II and Rosina Kunz on the "Moos" farm at Riedern. Samuel Kunz (1851-1927) was born there in 1851. One of the godfathers who witnessed his christening was Samuel Kunz, brother of Johannes (John I). In the summer of 1853, Johann Gottfried Kunz (1853-1928) was also born at Riedern. Magdalena Kunz [Wiedmer], John II's sister, was his godmother, David Wampfler (1823-1898), nephew of Heimberg schoolmaster Jakob Wampfler, stood as one of Johann Gottfried's godfathers. Less than a year later, David Wampfler's widowed aunt, Margaritha Boss Wampfler, was a member of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints.

In the years that followed, four more sons were born to John and Rosina Kunz at Riedern. David Kunz (1855-1916) was born in the fall of 1855, his godmother was Susanna Katharina Stucki Kunz (1829-1887), wife of his uncle Christian Kunz, then living at Wimmis at the mouth of the Simmental Canyon. David's godfathers were both from Niederstocken, indicating that John II already had close contact with the inhabitants of that hamlet at the foot of Mt. Stockhorn.

On July 1, 1857, Rosina Knutti Kunz gave birth to a stillborn son at Riedern. Two years later, Johann Jakob [Jacob] Kunz (1859-1890) was born on the "Moos" farm. All of his godparents were from the village of Amsoldingen, where John Kunz II was presumably working as a cheesemaker. Johann Wilhelm [William] Kunz (1860-1905) was born early in December 1860. His godmother was Rosina Kunz, his father's sister, who lived with her parents on the "Schwand" farm in the narrow canyon above Zwischenflueh.

Exactly when and how the Kunz family learned of Margaritha Boss Wampfler's 1854 baptism is not known. David Wampfler, the contemporary whom John II had selected a year earlier as a godfather to witness Johann Gottfried's christening in the village church at Diemtigen, no doubt only gradually learned of his aunt's baptism and the activity of Church members in the Thun region. Nevertheless, the practices and beliefs of the Mormons continually reoccured as topics of conversation.

In the second letter written to his wife from Thun in the summer of 1854, Secrist mentioned that "several remarkable cases of healing on several of the saints since baptism have established them more firmly in the truth." Fanny Warn Stenhouse (1826-1904), wife of the first Mission President in Switzerland, told in her autobiography of the healing of her eldest daughter (Clara Fredretta Stenhouse [young Montgomery Y. Agramonte] [1850-1893]) while living in the Ballif home in Lausanne and its impact upon the saints, they having been "...Greatly confirmed in their faith." (In her poem "To Mrs. Stenhouse, Switzerland," Eliza Roxey Snow Smith Young [1804-1887] included Fanny Stenhouse among those who "...Are counted worthy, toils and sufferings to partake" and whose "... Name is known in honor by the saints...")

Healing of the ill was something of particular interest to Johannes Kunz (John I) and his family because Rosina, one of the twin daughters, suffered from a spinal disease which doctors could neither identify nor cure. Knowing that his sister would be afflicted throughout her lifetime, John II apparently passed hearsay knowledge of the faith healings to his father on the little "Schwand" farm above Zwischenflueh. With a desire to learn more about a church which claimed to have such a power of healing, Johannes Kunz (John I) and his daughter Rosina sought after it in Thun.

They gained contact with presiding Elder Ulrich Buehler and listened to the story of the restoration. Recognizing it to be the truth, they were baptized as members of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints on June 22, 1862, by Buehler. Through the power of the priesthood manifest in the blessing given to Rosina and through her own faith, she became entirely well.

Upon returning to their alpine dairy farm, Johannes (John I) and his daughter sensed a very rebellious spirit among many of their friends, neighbors and relatives concerning Mormonism. John Kunz II was particularly disturbed to learn of his father's and sister's acceptance of Mormonism. In December, Rosina Knutti Kunz gave birth to youngest son Johann Robert Kunz (1862-1956) on the "Moos" farm at Riedern. In the christening record, the pastor in Diemtigen noted that John Kunz II was currently engaged as a cheesemaker in Amsoldingen, a village halfway between Thun and Niederstocken. Robert's godparents were David Wiedmer (1833-1891) (future husband of his Aunt Magdalena Kunz), John Kunz III (his eldest brother) and his Aunt Katharina Kunz.

The vast distances between the scattered church members prevented their coming together often. Nearly a year after Johannes (John I) and his daughter had been baptized, Buehler and a fellow companion decided to visit the Kunz family on the "Schwand" farm above Zwischenflueh. News that the Mormon emissaries were in the Diemtigen canyon spread quickly.

Among a number of the men in the valley who met and decided to run the Mormon elders out of the canyon was John Kunz II from the "Moos" farm at Riedern. Together they formed an angry mob and set out for the Kunz home at "Schwand."

The door on the "Schwand" house was built in two sections, enabling the top half to be opened without opening the bottom half. Upon hearing the noise of the group gathered on his farm, Johannes (John I) opened the top half of the door and was confronted by neighbors, relatives and those he had thought to be his friends.

The disorderly crowd informed Johannes that they wanted to drive the Mormon missionaries out of the area. Johannes was particularly disturbed to see his son from Riedern among the hostile group and emphatically told John II to return to his home and family. Johannes then talked to the rest of the mob and finally they left.

The inhabitants of Zwischenflueh and the Diemtigen Canyon remained bitter toward the Mormons but representatives of the Church were able to make visits without being molested. Through the renewed contact with Buehler and other converts, Katharina Kunz, Rosina's twin, also decided to join the Church. She was baptized in Lake Thun on June 12, 1863.

Three months later, Buehler baptized Anna Wampfler Klossner (1802-1867) (a third cousin of Heimberg schoolmaster Jakob Wampfler), the widow of Jakob Klossner (1764-1846) from the neighboring "Blatten" farm (and an uncle of Rosina Katharina Klossner Kunz at "Schwand"), along with her two daughters (cousins of Johannes Kunz's wife). In the summer of 1864, Jakob Klossner (1838- ), sons and brother of the church member family on the "Blatten" farm was also baptized.

Since 1814, a small but seemingly steady flow of Simmental cheesemakers immigrated to Russia. The majority were employed there by nobility and many gradually became independent and wealthy. In 1863, Jakob Kunz (1831- ), a second cousin of John Kunz II, from the "Anger" farm in the upper "Rossacker" area of Narrenbach at Zwischenflueh also immigrated with his wife and family to Russia, where he was engaged as a cheesemaker on the estate of a Baltic-German Baron. Encouraged by Jakob's success, two brothers, David Kunz (1835-1884) and Christian Kunz (1827- ), and their families immigrated to Russia by 1870. (Only comparatively few descendants were able to return to Switzerland at the time of the Russian Revolution.) A number of Rosina Knutti Kunz's second cousins immigrated to Russia, too. One, Luise Mani (1841-1885), married a Glarnese cheesemaker in 1864 in Dugino (Sychevka District, Smolensk Province), the rural estate of Prince Nicholas Petrovich Meshchersky (1829-1894).

Possibly through family contacts via David Kunz's godfathers or perhaps with the customary moving from place to place as a cheesemaker, John Kunz III made the acquaintance of the Straubhaar family at Niederstocken. Taught "...To work with my hands to sustain life," John no doubt learned his trade, at least in the early years, directly from his father. Being the eldest of the children on the "Moos" farm at Riedern, John III was "...Looked upon by my dearly beloved parents as a great help to them. But to their surprise..." He was drawn to Niederstocken, "...The place of my first love," and where "...A little over twenty years old I got married" on November 11, 1864, to Magdalena Straubhaar (1837-1874). Their first two sons, William John Kunz (1865-1952) and Johann Jakob Kunz (1866-1867), were born in the Straubhaar family home at Niederstocken. In 1866, John III and Magdalena Straubhaar Kunz commenced '...To keep house together, having each lived more or less with our parents until that time."

In the Spring of 1866, John III and Magdalena Straubhaar Kunz and their two sons moved to the lower "Blatten" farm at Zwischenflueh which was apparently vacated upon the emigration of Anna Wampfler Klossner and her children to Utah. At the "Blatten" farm, they were close neighbors to John's grandparents and twin aunts at "Schwand".

In the summer of that same year, Ulrich Buehler baptized 13-year old Johann Gottfried Kunz, the first of John II's large family to be baptized into the Church. Unfortunately, nothing is known of the circumstances surrounding his conversion, but it is particularly significant because it shows the apparent strong influence and activity of the family members already in the Church, as well as the growing division of the family as they affiliated themselves with Mormonism.

In May 1867, Magdalena Straubhaar Kunz gave birth to her first daughter, Rosina Katharina [Rose] Kunz [Eschler], just two days after the death of Johann Jakob, he "...Being a corpse in the house at the time." Rosina Kunz [Morrell] from "Schwand" was especially helpful in this time of need and in the following weeks and months, she and the wife of her nephew developed a close friendship. It is therefore certain that Magdalena Straubhaar Kunz, only a few months younger than the twin daughters of Johannes Kunz, gradually learned a lot about the teachings of the restored gospel.

The conversion and baptism of Jakob Klossner (1844- ) in the creek "Maeniggrundbach" below the "Schwand" and "Blatten" farms in June 1867 was a further important event. Klossner's deceased mother was Johannes Kunz (John I's) youngest sister, his paternal grandfather was a brother of Rosina Katharina Klossner Kunz at "Schwand".

Jakob Klossner's baptism brought further posterity of "Tschuppis" Jakob into the Church. The Mormonism which Johannes Kunz actively exemplified to his family and neighbors, combined with the patient diligence of the missionaries in keeping close contact with the few saints in the narrow canyon above Zwischenflueh, resulted in continued interest in the teachings of the Church. Three weeks after Jakob Klossner's baptism, Susanna Klossner (1842- ), his sister, was baptized into the Church by Ulrich Buehler.

Magdalena Straubhaar Kunz contracted a fever through her father's family that same year, "...Being a very sick woman almost unto death for over three months and...[Her] health being ruined through it for the rest of ...[Her] days here on earth." During the long illness of John III's wife, his twin aunts on the nearby "Schwand" farm were of immense help to Magdalena Kunz and her infant son and daughter. Through this continued close association, Magdalena Straubhaar Kunz recognized the truthfulness of the gospel message.

In the spring of 1868, missionary Willard Brigham Richards (1847-1942) met with the members of the Thun Branch and ordained Johannes Kunz (John I) to the office of a Priest. When Richards and Mission President Karl Gottfried Maeser (1828-1901) visited Zwischenflueh in November of that year, the humble little "Schwand" farm house was the center of activity. Johannes Kunz (John I) 65 years of age, and his twin daughters, nearly 32 years old, were devout members. Neither Rosina Katharina Klossner Kunz nor her married daughter and two married sons belonged to the Church. Johann Gottfried Kunz, Johannes' 15-year old grandson on the "Moos" farm at Riedern, and Susanna and Jakob Klossner on the upper "Blatten" farm, Johannes' niece and nephew were also faithful members of the Church.

Magdalena Straubhaar Kunz desired to attend a meeting at "Schwand" and hear the sermons of the visiting missionaries. In spite of being filled with a spirit of opposition, the maturity and wisdom of his wife persuaded 24-year old John III to accompany her to the nearby home of his grandfather. Even though John III smoked his long pipe so much during the first meeting that the air was clouded with smoke, he was moved by the teachings so ably presented by Maeser (who prior to coming to Europe the previous year to preside over the Church's Swiss and German Mission was engaged as a private tutor to Brigham Young's [1801-1877] family). During Maeser's visit on the "Schwand" farm, he ordained Johannes (John I) to the office of an Elder on November 11th.

Four days later, John III and Magdalena Straubhaar Kunz acknowledged their testimonies of the truthfulness of the restored gospel and decided to join the Church. Maeser baptized them and Rosina Katharina Klossner Kunz in the cold waters of the creek (Maeniggrundbach) just below the farm houses on November 15, 1868, John III "...Claiming that [his wife] had been instrumental in bringing indirectly his [own] conversion about as well as that of his grandmother."

The three baptisms kindled much anguish for John II and Rosina Knutti Kunz at Riedern. They were fond of their eldest son and his wife. Rosina Knutti Kunz stood as godmother at the christening of her grandson, Johann Jakob. John II and his mother were the godparents of John III's daughter, Rose. In an attempt to convince their son of the grave mistake he had made in joining the Mormons, John II and Rosina (according to family tradition) asked John III to come to Riedern and get them a load of wood for the winter.

While at their home, they asked John III numerous questions and tried to prove from their understanding of the Bible that he had made an error in being baptized. From that which he had learned from the missionaries and through his own studying, John III defended his decision with the scriptures. When John II realized that his efforts were futile, he became angry and raised points based on falsehoods and abuse. Nevertheless, before John III left he bore a strong testimony of the truthfulness of the restored gospel.

The sincerity of John II's two sons (John III and Johann Gottfried), his parents and twin sisters touched him sufficiently that he and Rosina agreed to meet with the missionaries and listen to what they had to say. Upon receiving the invitation to come to the "Moos" farm, Richards and a local Elder made their way through the mid-winter snow to Riedern. In spite of Richards' broken German and the translations of his companion, John II and Rosina Knutti Kunz understood the message. On February 27, 1869, Richards baptized them and their 20-year old daughter Kaeti in the icy waters of the "Kirelbach" Creek. One month later 17-year old Samuel and 13-year old David were baptized in the "Maeniggrundbach".

On July 14, 1869, Magdalena Straubhaar Kunz gave birth to her youngest son, Johannes [Johnny] (1869-1945), whom Reverend Gabriel Karl Friedrich Stettler (1828-1905) recorded in the Diemtigen Parish register without a record of christening because "the father...Belongs to the Mormon sect."

On that same day, Susanna Klossner Agenstein (1845-) grandniece of Rosina Katharina Klossner Kunz (and a daughter of a cousin of Rosina Knutti Kunz) was baptized in the hamlet of Baechlen. Her husband, Gottlieb Agenstein (1824- ), and two of his daughters from his first marriage joined the church in September. In December 1869, Rosina Kunz Bischoff was baptized in the "Kirelbach" near her parents' home in Riedern.

Although a large number of inhabitants of the community of Diemtigen emigrated during the first half of the 19th century, John Kunz II apparently did not consider such a possibility. As a respected Simmental cheesemaker, he could have at any time taken advantage of the opportunity and emigrate to Russia, as three of his cousins and many friends and associates from the community did. Aware of the emigration to Utah of earlier Church converts, John II allegedly stipulated at the time of his conversion that he would be baptized only upon condition that he not be asked to emigrate from Switzerland.

Although he vigorously opposed joining the Church, John II experienced a change in spirit and became a staunch supporter of the doctrines which were at first new to him. Similarly, he and his wife soon felt of the spirit of gathering and began making plans to emigrate. In May 1870, 23-year old Christian, 10-year old Jacob and 9-year old William were baptized prior to leaving Switzerland. In accordance with the teachings of the Church they had embraced, 7-year old Robert was not baptized because of not yet having reached the age of eight.

At the beginning of July 1870, 47-year old John Kunz II bade goodbye to his aged parents at "Schwand", to his married son and daughter all of whom were members of the Church, and to his sister and brother and their families, as well as other relatives, neighbors and friends. Along with his wife and their eight single children, they left the "Moos" farm at Riedern to emigrate to Utah. John II's twin sisters, Susanna Klossner from the upper "Blatten" farm and Gottlieb Agenstein and his wife and family were also in the emigrant group.

The emigrants met in Basel at the Red Ox Inn on July 5th and departed the next morning via railroad for Mannheim, where they arrived that same evening and were joined by several German saints from the Munich and Dresden areas. On July 7th the emigrant party boarded the Rhine steamer "Viktoria" with which they traveled to Duesseldorf. After changing boats there, they continued to Rotterdam and stopped at the City of Antwerp Inn. On Saturday evening, July 9th, they boarded the steamer "Lord Cardigan" and crossed the English Channel, arriving in Grimsby on Monday morning. They left Grimsby shortly thereafter, arrived in Liverpool that same evening about 5 p.m., and were permitted to embark at once on the ship "Manhattan" which sailed for New York on July 13th.

News of the arrival of the immigrants in Utah, their privilege of personally meeting and shaking hands with the entire First Presidency (Brigham Young and Counselors George Albert Smith [1817-1875] and Daniel Hamner Wells [1814-1891]) in Farmington, Utah and settling for that first Winter at Logan in Utah's Cache Valley (near cousin Susanna Klossner Herzog [1834-1906] and her family) was a source of great comfort to Johannes and Rosina Katharina Klossner Kunz as well as to John III and Magdalena Kunz and the other members of the church near Zwischenflueh. Johannes Kunz (John I), in accordance with the opinion of the time, was Particularly grateful "...For seeing the deliverance from Babylon of such a large number all at once...Of his nearest blood relatives."

In the months that followed, John III baptized a number of converts and otherwise spent considerable time in behalf of the tiny Simmental Branch under the leadership of his grandfather. The events surrounding one of the baptisms performed by John III were the cause of a special report by Mission President Edward Schoenfeld:

Two weeks ago, one of our travelling elders was up in the mountains of the 'Bernese Oberland,' where the 'cracks and peaks' remind one that Israel has to be hunted out from amongst the rocks and caves. As he was preaching there, the unruly sons of the landlord was trying hard to interrupt and to break up the meeting. Not four days, however, from the time the elder left, I received a letter (in haste) stating that the same boy was sick, given up by the doctors, left without hope to recover, and he wished for baptism, as he repented of his sins. I could not have reached the place in less than two days' travel, besides, I had other appointments out, therefore I telegraphed to another elder, who, instead of going the regular road (ten hours walk) took a mountain path (five hours) over the alpine snowfields, where the chamois roam. There he had to travel through snow in places up to his arms. But he having at times been engaged in chamois hunting, and being acquainted with the dangerous paths in those regions, filled his engagement, reached the [17-year old] boy Johann Peter Roethlisberger at Saanenmoeser), took him to the creek, where high waters carried heavy rocks with a thunderlike roaring, baptized and confirmed him [on October 31, 1870] and left him the next day, after bearing his testimony, restored to perfect health. I saw the Elder a few days ago. He told me that gold could not have induced him to go that same road back, he preferred the ten hour walk, where, however, the high water, in consequence of recent heavy rains, had taken away the road in places, so that he had to wade several times knee deep in water. The name of that noble Elder is Johannes Kunz, a son of one of the same name who emigrated this year with his large family to the valley.

During the winter, Johannes (John I) contracted pneumonia, which caused his death on February 17, 1871, at the age of 67. It was difficult to sense the division of the otherwise close family as they gathered for the funeral service, the first in the community of Diemtigen not to be conducted by the Reformed Church Pastor. In the cortege that followed the horse drawn casket down the precipitous canyon path to the cemetery at Zwischenflueh, Johannes' non-Mormon children and grandchildren mingled with John III and Magdalena as well as with the mixed congregation of Mormon and Reformed Church relatives and friends. Five-year old William [John] Kunz, John III's eldest son, sat on top of his great grandfather's casket inasmuch as he was too little to walk the long, steep mountain path to the cemetery.

Following the death of his grandfather, John III and his family moved to the neighboring "Schwand" farm where his grandmother lived. As a result he assumed the nickname by which his grandfather was also known, "Schwand Hans" (and by which name he is still known over a century later by his distant cousins who own the "Schwand" farm today). That same summer, Christian and Elisabeth Muetzenberg Klossner (whom John III baptized the previous winter) and the rest of their family from the upper "Blatten" farm emigrated to Utah.

In October 1871, Magdalena Straubhaar Kunz gave birth to a second daughter, Magdalena Mathilda Kunz, who lived only a month. A second time the pastor noted in the Diemtigen parochial registers that the child was not christened in the Reformed Church because the father "belongs to the Mormon sect." One month after Magdalena Mathilda's burial, the family filed down to the Zwischenflueh cemetery a third time that year for the burial of Magdalena Kunz Wiedmer, John II's eldest sister who died a month before her 39th birthday.

The little Simmental Branch was again diminished in 1872 through the emigration of further converts whom John III had baptized. Membership records bear witness of his active role in the Church in the Bernese Oberland, in spite of making plans to immigrate with his own family to the Bear Lake Valley in southern Idaho, where John II and his family had settled.

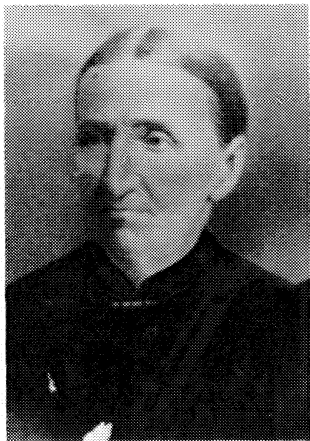

At the beginning of July 1873, 70-year old Rosina Katharina Klossner Kunz bade her son and granddaughters farewell and accompanied by John III, Magdalena and their three children, they left Zwischenflueh. On July 2nd, they were in Niederstocken and John baptized two more converts, one of them being Sophia Straubhaar (1846-1893), Magdalena's younger sister (whom John married a year later in Utah, following the death of his first wife). After saying goodbye to the Straubhaar family and friends, the emigrants left to continue their journey to the United States.

In the summer of 1875, Rosina Kunz Bischoff and her husband and family also emigrated, they being the last of the immediate family from Zwischenflueh to join the earlier immigrants in Idaho and Utah. That same summer, Margaritha Kunz Tueller (1836-1910), daughter of "Tschuppis Jakob's" son Samuel, joined the Church with her family. When they emigrated from Boltigen in 1884, a third large branch of the posterity of "Tschuppis" Jakob Kunz took root in the Rocky Mountains.

In reflecting upon this Swiss background, the sacrifices made by these forebearers over a century ago prove to be the very foundation on which their posterity may gain in faith, devotion, education and prosperity. In spite of much persecution from relatives and friends, these ancestors listened to the message of the restored gospel and then embraced it through baptism. They provided a part of the American heritage of their future posterity by following the spirit of gathering and forsaking their beautiful, native homeland in the Alps and going to a foreign country to start a new life among strangers. Because of their striving to keep the commandments of God and making the gospel a part of their daily lives, their descendants continue to partake of virtually innumerable blessings.

PLACE INDEX

This index is more representative than exhaustive. While most of those addresses for married people and adults away from home are listed here, if we have them, one may still want to look in the section of the book where all of the information for that person is listed. It is possible that the address may be there and not here.
